

PRESIDENT'S PAGE

Hello everyone..I'll be looking for all of you at our 13th. annual Hometown Reunion on Sunday, October 28th. This will be a very festive affair to help welcome the opening of our beautiful new Community Center. It really is a great asset to Lakeside and I hope YOU will be there to help us celebrate! This will give all the out-of-towners a chance to see this building and later in the afternoon we will have the church open so you can see what has been accomplished during this past year...we have made a lot of progress but still lots to be done! So come one, come all and visit with some long time acquaintances or make some new friends...we are a friendly group and hope to see you there! Be happy and stay healthy.

Need a reminder?

There is a "QUILTING BEE" 10am-2pm every Friday at the Olde Community Church - 9906 Maine Ave., sponsored by the Lakeside Historical Society.

VOLUNTEER OF THE MONTH

GERTRUDE DAVIS does other things besides sit at the front table and take minutes of our meetings. Frequently you will find her at the church, paint brush in hand, possibly high up on a ladder, helping with the restoration of the old building. Or you might find she and husband, Bill, at the Museum in the Park acting as docents for some special occasion. Bill also mans the Historical Society Store every Wednesday. Sorry, Bill, we couldn't find a picture on hand. Shows how humble and retiring he is!

WHY?

Why a raffle? Simply because raffles are a practical and cost-efficient fundraising method. They're fun, too. And they give you a chance to win a valuable prize while supporting an organization you believe in.

Barbara Guihan of Lancaster wrote to tell us of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dodge, who moved to Lakeside in 1929 and lived on Los Coches Rd. for many years. She sent us some pictures of the family - wish we could have had them to go along with the short biography in the Legends of Lakeside, of the Dodge family. A follow-up call came from her Aunt Ida Lucas, who lives in El Cajon, and whose daughter, Terry Hall went to school in Lakeside when my dad, E. H. Carender, was principal.... Marcella W.

TRAVELERS

Don and Dorothy Clevenger recently visited Mrs. Ruby Pickerl of Edmonton, Canada and her son, Newell and wife, Mary of Warburg, Alberta, Canada. Mrs. Pickerl lived in the old Gavin house on Main St. during the flood in 1927. Her son, Newell, was born here in Lakeside. They moved back to Canada after living here 2 or 3 years. Newell is now a member of the Historical Society.

Thanks to alert friends on Prospect Ave. all is well and Sara is home safe and sound.

Cecil may be gone but not his coleslaw

Cecil's coleslaw may have won raves from those who visited the Lakeside eatery years ago, but you'd have to be Cecil's brother, Dane Carender of Lakeside, to duplicate the recipe.

Dane Carender is the one who cooked up the coleslaw, wife Eileen called to tell us. The problem is, he did it with a fistful of this and a handful of that — and even SHE can't do it. Carender used to make it up in a seven-gallon bowl and didn't use any real measuring cups.

"They'll never make it like him," Eileen Carender said. "I've tried and tried it."

TOM BARKDULL

Tom Barkdull passed away Sept. 21, 1990 in Madison, South Dakota. Tom, Evelyn, and their three children moved to Lakeside in 1947 on Julian Ave. next to the old Frog Farm. They immediately became involved in community affairs. Tom was a charter member of the Kiwanis Club and served as president in 1950, succeeding the first president, Elmer "Dutch" Walker. The entire family were active participants in Our Lady of Perpetual Help, school affairs; and Tom sang the lead in "The Moonlighters", a quartet that was recognized nationally.

They moved to Arizona in 1960, then to South Dakota in 1970.

Survivors besides his wife are: Tom, Jr. of Las Vegas; Chloe Raugh, El Cajon; and Nancy Swanson, La Mesa.

COOKIN' IN THE BACK COUNTRY

Fortune Cookies

About 36 cookies

Equipment:

White paper
Permanent-ink pen
Scissors
Baking sheet
Wooden spoon with long,
dowel-shaped handle

Ingredients:

3 egg whites
¼ cup sugar
Pinch of salt
4 ounces unsalted butter,
melted
½ cup sifted flour
2 teaspoons pure almond
extract

Cut 3 dozen strips of white paper ¼-inch wide and about 1½ inches long. Write fortunes on the papers and fold each in half. Set aside.

Beat egg whites until frothy and gradually beat in sugar and salt until dissolved. Stir in melted butter, flour and almond extract, and beat until blended.

Drop the dough in rounded teaspoons about 3 inches apart onto an ungreased baking sheet. Bake for 8 to 10 minutes at 350 degrees until the edges of the cookies are golden brown.

Working very quickly, remove 1 cookie at a time from the baking sheet. Hold the cookie in the palm of your hand and place 1 folded fortune in the center. Fold the cookie in half. Drape the folded cookie over the handle of a wooden spoon. Fold the corners around the spoon to meet and gently press together. Slide the cookie off the spoon.

Repeat with remaining cookies. If cookies become too brittle to fold as you work, return them to the oven for a minute to soften. (From "Gifts of Food," by Susan Costner; Crown Publishers.)

Colorado dinosaur embryo may be 150 million years old

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — A dinosaur embryo, believed to be the oldest ever unearthed in North America, was discovered by a Brigham Young University student on a remote southwestern Colorado mountain, BYU officials said yesterday.

"The find is significant," said geology professor Wade Miller, director of the BYU Earth Science Museum, because no dinosaur eggshell as old as the one found in Colorado and with such an advanced embryo — near the hatching stage — "has been reported in North America."

The embryo is a Dryosaurus dinosaur, believed to be 135 million to 150 million years old, Miller said. BYU geology student Rod Scheetz discovered pieces of the embryo and eggshell in May at a road-construction site near Uravan, Colo., a community of about 800 residents.

Dryosaurus, discovered in 1878 has been compared with the modern gazelle because of its slender build and long, agile hind legs. The herbivore with teeth was a member of the hypsilophodontids, a family of small to medium-size dinosaurs.

Pendulum's swing should offset buildings swaying in winds

A 37-story office building nearing completion in Osaka, Japan, is topped by an unusual feature — a gigantic pendulum designed to prevent the building from swaying in high winds.

The 345-foot Crystal Tower is the first in the world to use a pendulum to counter high winds that cause the top floors of tall buildings to sway, according to the builder, Takenaka Komuten Co.

Six 90-ton water containers used for the building's air-conditioning serve as weights for the pendulum, suspended from a beam by 13-foot iron bars. When swaying occurs, the pendulum swings in the opposite direction of the building to offset the motion.

Fish Census?

With all the Federal "census" news we have been bombarded with lately the "actual count" of our ocean's fish population has been a popular subject of much debate. The actual number however is only an "educated" guesstimate. Biologists have claimed that there are between 15,000 to over 40,000 separate species swimming in our oceans. The figure that is most often quoted though is 25,000. The reasons for this wide discrepancy are: Some species have not been named, some species have been named with more than one name through subtle differences, some species have extreme differences between the sexes, so much so that they appear to be of a separate family. But most amazing of all is one species, the Grouper which has over 350 separate families. This fish will first mature as a female and then switch sexes entirely to become a male, usually from 7 to 10 years of age!
